

Sheriff Bangura

Born in Sierra Leone, Africa, Sheriff Bangura is based in Washington, D.C., and is currently the CEO of Aplus Capabilities, a technology firm he founded that specializes in cybersecurity, software engineering, and data science. Sheriff is a 2020 alumnus of The Citadel with a degree in computer science who is currently pursuing a doctorate in technology with a focus on artificial intelligence at Capital Technology University, while also serving as the Vice President of the Military Cyber Professionals Association. Sheriff's past experiences range from engineering at Amazon Web Services and General Dynamics to more recently serving as a Cyber Warfare Officer for the U.S. Army

Cyber Command. In addition, Sheriff is a veteran who serves in the U.S. Army reserves as a 1st Lieutenant. Sheriff currently donates part of the profits from Aplus Capabilities to the Richard O. Honeycutt Foundation he founded which continues to support STEM majors at the Citadel.

Sheriff is a formidable speaker on character and leadership.